

Tech to Replace All Teachers and Students with Administrators

By Your Leadership Announcements

Following the announcement of Co-Principle Josue Diaz's intent to leave Tech, the administration's Community Advisory Board on the Proliferation and Procreation of Hopefully Not Entirely Useless Administrative Functionaries has released its findings on what is to be done. After fully two closed door meetings carried out in the dead of night without the knowledge of a single teacher, student, or parent, the Community Advisory Board announced that administrators face undue strain and are forced to actually work. They stated that these stresses are likely caused by the presences of students and teachers at Oakland Tech. In light of these findings, the board has unanimously decreed, based on empirical data, that all students and teachers are to be replaced by administrators for the coming school year. This bold measure will increase Oakland Tech's number of administrators from 500 to 2000. According to a powerpoint made by 20 administrators, including 8 Co-Principles and 9 vice principals, these reforms will continue to move our Tech community towards a bright future were things like people playing dice and walking through the hallways do not occur. When asked for further comment, the administrator in charge of public relations chanted "Equity, community, data" and then beat the student reporter senseless for not being in an academy. The administration denies that this took place but states it can not condone such reckless behavior as being academyless. As for the breakdown of Oakland Tech's new administrative body, the Scribble has been provided with the following personnel estimates: 100 Co-Principles, 200 Vice-Principals, 300 Anti-Principles, 400 Under-Principles, 500 lackeys, 499 toadies, and 1 teacher on special assignment (for union reasons). The respective duties of each administrator is top secret in accordance with the administration's Brick Wall transparency policy. There has been some backlash against the proposed plan. To the administration's stunned surprise, several well liked and respected teachers have objected to being replaced. "Schools are places of learning; learning implies teachers and students, duh" said one impassioned teacher. Although at first reactions from the students themselves were mixed, many have now found reasons to resist their replacement as well. "How will I ever eat if I have no access to pizza on Thursdays?" queried one angry freshmen. "In theory, I don't mind disbanding the student body and laying off all the teachers, but when someone pointed out that that would get rid of Paideia, I got really mad" imperiously bellowed an outgoing senior. "If there's no more school, how can I stick it to The Man by skipping school?" wondered another. Even Tech's long suffering neighbors lodged a complaint. "Without the students, who will smoke, litter, and gamble in our yards?" one incensed resident said, adding "I mean I don't like it but come on, administrators are even worse." Despite this unified resistance, the administration has maintained that it knows best and will be proceeding on schedule. If you would like to be a Tech administrator for the forthcoming school year, please send in your resume. All administrators will be paid in Bulldog Bucks.

Students Shocked to Discover Rebecca Wolf is in Fact an Administrator and Not a Student

By The Only Person Who Goes to Detention

This Wednesday, April 11 at 12:05 an Oakland Tech senior shared a shocking discovery: Rebecca Wolf her friend throughout her four years at Tech is not a student but rather... an administrator.

"She asked me to meet with her during lunch to discuss a project we were working on" the student recalls, "but when I got to the room number she gave me 'Ms. Wolf' was printed on the door of an office..." claims the student, still processing the surprise, "I didn't know what to think, I can't believe it took me four years to realize..." Naturally, she had to share her discovery on snapchat. Almost instantly the responses came pouring in.

Some students weren't surprised, saying they've always thought Wolf was more than an over-achieving member of ASB working tirelessly with no reward. Many others began connecting the dots: "Oooh so that's why she has a walkie-talkie...this whole time I thought she got rid of her iPhone for a social media cleanse..."

But for the vast

(Ms. Wolf continues on page 8)

A Look Inside

Freshman Caught Taking Steroids, Claim Just For Opening the Front Door

Escape PE

Ahhhhhhhh idk

Hit Single "Deidre's Plan" Takes all the Awards at the Grammy's

200 New School Security Officers Hired to Ensure Sophomores Never

Underground Paper Ring Revealed to Be Making Millions Off of Paper Shortage

Rampage of Seagulls Forces School Shutdown

		7		2			8
2			8		4	7
8		9	6			5		1
		8	4	6	1	3		2
6	5			9		1	4
	2							6
		4			6		1	3
	1		3			8
	8	2	1	5				7

1	9		5				3
3						8		9
	2		8	3	9		6
	7	5	6			1		2
		2				3
9		1	4		2	6	7
	4		9		8		1
		3		4				6
	5				6		2	7

News

Ghost of Mr. Merrill Haunts Engineering Room

By Lavender Gooms
aka "The Heater"

Last June, Oakland Tech said goodbye to Parker Merrill, founder of the prestigious, incredibly diverse Oakland Tech Engineering Academy. After teaching for 40 years, Mr. Merrill retired, leaving a legacy that will never be forgotten.

However, some engineering students say it feels like Mr. Merrill still walks the halls of room S3. John Michael Hoffman, a senior, alleged that he was able to "faintly smell biscotti from time to time." Other engineering students say they can hear whispers of borderline-offensive jokes while nobody else is around. Ailing juniors complained that their balsa wood bridges (which they worked "like, super hard" on,) were destroyed despite the absence of anyone to load them with sand. All signs point to a Poltergeist-esque haunting. Who - or what - is behind the biscotti, the jokes, the bridges? Engineering students want answers. We at The Scribble decided to answer this question by asking another: Who you gonna call?

We hired local Ghostbuster Dr. John Klopotoski to investigate the events in room S3. (It's worth noting that Klopotoski's doctorate is in Ukrainian art history) Klopotoski explained to The Scribble (in his best Bill Murray voice) that the levels of ectoplasm in room S3 are higher than anything he's seen before. "It doesn't make any sense," said Klopotoski, "Mr. Merrill isn't dead, so there shouldn't be any paranormal activity." Dr. Klopotoski vowed to spend all his time in the engineering room conducting experiments to determine the root of the occurrences. "It's not like I spend much time anywhere else," said the doctor.

Really?? The enginerds spend all their time in this place?!?!

you haven't seen it by now," said Klopotoski, "that's your own fault."

Klopotoski explains that Mr. Merrill was able to project himself via his immense knowledge of dark magic.

Nobody knows for sure why Mr. Merrill has been haunting the engineering room, but Klopotoski says he'd like to believe it's because he's not quite ready to say goodbye to Oakland Tech. But we all know that's probably not true.

Oakland Tech's Serial Desk Breaker

By The Broken
Tampon Box in Every
Girls Bathroom

Broken desks: they're everyone's worst nightmare. The physical pain, the embarrassment, those occasional screams you hear down the hallway when some unfortunate soul tries to scoot their desk forward only to topple to an untimely demise...Broken desks have affected everyone at Tech, but very few people actually know the man behind them. He's been called the Loch Ness Monster, Santa Claus, the Zodiac Killer: His name is Koichi Kodama, and he's responsible for that three-legged desk in the corner of your classroom. In the past 4 years, Mr. Kodama has ravaged an estimated 315 desks school-wide.

Our investigative team tracked down the legend himself and asked him how he began his life of savagery. He was hunkered down in the basement, aggressively tearing the legs from a chair.

"I've known it was my calling ever since I destroyed my first high-chair," he explained. "A lot of people misunderstand me. They think I like watching other people suffer, but really I'm just doing what the universe wants me to do." No representatives of the universe could be reached for comment. Koichi added that he has been working hard to impart his life philosophy ("The solution to all problems is the destruction of furniture") on his newly recruited apprentice Campbell Connour.

A handful of students were present one morning in March to witness Cam's first successful mission: the destruction of his own desk. In a barbaric display, Cam ripped the chair from his desk and sat for the rest of class on the metal skeleton of his former desk.

One of Koichi's former teachers, Ms. Haugen, is the person who has been most affected by his propensity for desk-breaking. She lost four of her newest desks to Mr. Kodama in just one week. "My God, the man's a lunatic," she said, recalling the trauma. The administration has complained that they simply cannot afford to replace any more desks, especially now that they have to focus all their financial means on attracting at least three new unqualified replacements for Mr. Diaz.

A broken desk Koichi claims he was not responsible for.

April Sports Calendar

2018

Apr. 3 -12p.m.-Varsity Cricket vs. Franklin @Tech

Apr. 6 - 3:30p.m. - Varsity Cricket @Redwood Christian

Apr. 7 - 3:30p.m.- Varsity Snowboarding SCRIMMAGE @San Lorenzo

Apr. 9 - 5p.m.- Girls Varsity Downhill Skiing vs. Head Royce @Tech

Apr. 12- 5p.m.- Girls Varsity Connect4 vs. College Park @Tech

Apr. 22- 4p.m.- Varsity Cricket vs. Pittsburg @Tech

Apr. 23- 6p.m.- Girls Varsity Bean Bag Toss vs. Newark Memorial @Tech

Apr. 24- Varsity Horse Shoes @Antioch JV @2p.m. Varsity @11p.m.

For more information visit oaklandtech.com/staff/athletics-calendar

Mr. Kodama, strategically planning how to dismember his next desk

News

Tech Shuts Off All Wifi in Effort to Get Students Off Their Phones

Ujszo.com

By Student Who Needs to Tell You How Hard Their AP Classes Are

Students were recently shocked to discover that Tech's WiFi had gone from weak to nonexistent. "I turned my VPN on and off like, six times but it still didn't work" noted a frantic sophomore.

The lack of WiFi is part of the Oakland Unified School District's new "Minimalist Education" initiative, which aims to bring students back to the "good old days" before the Internet. Students will no longer be glued to their phones during class, unless they have lots of data to spare.

The money previously directed to WiFi and technology services will be reallocated to the District Executive Recognition Fund, which pays for the birthday parties of high level OUSD employees.

One junior claimed that the removal of Tech's Internet access was hurting them academically, "I'm writing an essay and I can't go online to find any sources. I tried to use an encyclopedia in the library, but when I tried to pick it up it turned to dust."

Administrators say the number of students on their phones has decreased, but the now bored students have taken to complaining about the situation to the administration.

Removing the WiFi has also posed a problem to Tech's Computer Science Academy. Most assignments are posted on Google Classroom, making them now inaccessible. However, that does not seem to be a major concern for Computer Academy students, whose main complaint is in fact that they can no longer access Cool Math Games.

Hopes of getting the WiFi back are slim, as OUSD is reported to have a new budget of $4.73 for educational resources.

Josue Diaz to Head New OT Moon Academy

By A 17 Year Old Healthy Man, Trying His Best

Members of the Oakland Tech community had mild reactions earlier this year when Co-Principal Josue Diaz announced that he would not be returning to Tech next Fall. Diaz, a strong proponent of the academy system, has not yet made public any plans for the future, but conspiracy theorists have been going wild. Some claim he's made enough black market money selling confiscated items to retire early and another group firmly believes that he was an OUSD experiment in AI that is being recalled due to defects.

Sadly, neither of the above are true. According to a trustworthy source at the district, Mr. Diaz is in fact a human and will not only be leaving Oakland Tech next year, but planet Earth. He will be heading the district's next waste of money, the Oakland Tech Moon Academy. District spokeswoman Ikare A. Boutstudents told the Scribble that, "starting Fall 2018, all students who indicate on surveys that they are not interested in any of Tech's academies will be automatically enrolled in the OT Space Program." She continued to say, in so many words, that students will be forced to immediately board a rocket without saying goodbye to their parents, friends, loved ones, or pets and shot off into space for the remainder of high school.

Last year, OUSD sold $100 billion dollars worth of student information to finance the Moon Campus, which includes research facilities, dorms, and an exclusive resort for the upper echelon of OUSD employees. Tech alum Elan Muske (not to be confused with Elon Musk) provided the new program with 20 SpaceZ cars manufactured by his company Teslab, but has said that he will accept no responsibility for any malfunctions, crashes, system breakdowns, deaths, spontaneous combustions, or other catastrophes surrounding the use of the SpaceZ. Diaz and Muske were seen last weekend shaking hands and trying not to make eye contact outside Oakland's famous cafe and deli, Primavera.

Insiders at Tech say that this revelation clears up many mysteries surrounding Diaz. Why does he seem to be shrinking? Scientists believe that prolonged time in zero-gravity can compact the spine and reduce height. Why is his hair always slicked back? Sources say that the increased pressure and weight from the hair gel helps him simulate the feeling of having a space helmet on at all times. Diaz will be in charge of a variety of courses including "Outer-Space Data Collection," "Calculating Cray-Cray Physics," "Bouncy-Moon-Walking," and "Flight Skillz." When approached about his experience in these fields, Diaz stated that he will be "on a learning curve, just like the students, flying the spaceship of learning to the planet Knowledge" Whether he knows how to fly a spaceship or anything else about space remains to be seen.

News

Secret Tunnel Discovered Between Mr. Stubblefield and Mrs. Joe's Rooms

By The Founders of The OTHS Espionage Agency

To those students who know Ms. Joe and Mr. Stubblefield well, it comes as no surprise to know that they spend much of their free period together. They are sophomore Paideia teachers, and thus need to plan their classes together, but more than that - they are friends. However, ground-breaking reporting by our journalists has uncovered the shocking method by which Mr. Stubblefield travels between his own room and Ms. Joe's.

While pouring over recently updated schematics of the school, our intrepid reporters discovered a secret tunnel designed to directly connect the two rooms... why? Who knows? That's for you to decide. One of our reporters suspects that Mr. Stubblefield dug the tunnel himself so that he could get to his destination without having to look at his terrified students as he walks through the halls. Or maybe the school suggested the alternative route after several students and parents complained about his sinister facial expressions as he handed out new essay prompts.

It is perhaps also possible that the tunnel dates back before the pairs' time here. Perhaps it once connected another pair of teachers as closely bonded as Mr. Stubblefield and Ms. Joe. Or perhaps it was once used by seniors to smuggle alcohol into the school. Anything goes. Some say the tunnel is so deep underground, you can't even see our long lost school spirit, which was so cruelly abandoned at Tech's founding.

We sent one reporter down the tunnel, she did not return. So it goes. Further exploration by the authors of this article revealed that the tunnel's entrance is guarded by a Sphinx. To pass through without being eaten, you must get full points on 10 Things Learned questions and a stamp of approval from Ms. Snyder. Her link to this tunnel is unknown and deeply suspicious. First, we must acknowledge the student who led us to the entrance to the first place. He asked to be identified only by his surname, Rex. Rex may have led us to it, but it took several days to finally locate the entrance. In hindsight, it may not have been wise to rely on a blind person to find a hidden entrance. For people besides Rex, hindsight is 20/20. Unfortunately, Rex disappeared the next day and has not been heard from since. So it goes.

We have recently discovered that the entrances to the tunnel are secured by a heavy iron door with a scanner. We suspect that the key is linked with the identical NPR tea cups owned by the scheming pair. The key seems to be activated by DNA and the words, "thank god these irritating students are gone."

Though it may seem unbelievable, this paper does not publish fake news. Furthermore, empirical evidence supports the existence of such a tunnel. How else could Douglass "Stubs"

Stubblefield leave his classroom at 3:35pm and magically appear in A4 at 3:36pm? When asked whether he bore any resemblance to the Flash character, students responded with blank stares.

I'm lying about everything in this article...or am I lying about everything being false? Have a wonderful day.

Confirmed entrance to the tunnel, as seen from Ms. Joe's room.

Freshmen Girls: Sure They Wear Thrasher, But Do They Even Skate?

By The Person Whose Mom Knows Your Mom

Standing at the 696 bus stop, one observes a plethora of freshmen girls standing, waiting. At first glance the image bears no curiosity for the viewer, until they begin to look closer and understand the enigma behind the girls in the Tech class of 2021. They stand, all wearing the same exact outfit: a cropped Thrasher hoodie and camo pants. Upperclassmen are frazzled and confused by the similarity of their younger peers, some are even unaware of what the beloved skating company clothing is, "I thought Thrasher was a band until like, 30 seconds ago" said Overachieving Paideia Student. This student, like many of the other privileged Paideia students who are cut off from the rest of the community are confused by the conformity of the lowerclassmen. Overachieving Paideia Student goes on to talk about their younger sister and her choice of pants, "My sister got pink camo pants from Hot Topic and I gave her so much crap for it, like what environment are you trying to blend into?" While some are still trying to understand the growing trend, others call into the question: Do they even skate? Graduating Senior RLSK8RGRL talked about her days back in middle school, saying "I used to be a skater girl when I was 14, so these girls can run up on me at any time. If you haven't been to at least one skatepark, don't talk to me."

Recent research from Our Acceptance Rate is Now -40% University found that only 0% of freshmen girls who wear Thrasher actually skate. So, why wear it? "I don't skate," said freshman CamoPants99, "but I saw Jacob Sartorius wear a Thrasher Hoodie on one of his IG posts so I knew I had to get one." It seems that social media has had an influential impact on the youth culture, ranging from clothing, to music, and even slang words. This leaves us wondering, what's next for the younger generation??

Things No Longer Considered Cute, Sexy, and Cool at Tech

By That Random Underclassman Who Always Says Hi to You

Notice to the Students of Oakland Tech from your Administration:

The following Things are no longer to be considered Cute, Sexy, or Cool on school property:

- Being a weedhead
- Skipping mandatory assemblies
- Fun
- Being a weedhead
- "Boxing" lavatory facilities
- Entering or exiting campus from anywhere besides the front doors

- Not referring to the rats that inhabit Oakland Tech as "Exemplary Students"
- Student parking on campus

- Being a weedhead
- Failing to properly microwave popcorn
- Being a weedhead

Features

Groundbreaking Knowledge! This Male Student Enlightens Peers: “If the teacher doesn’t show up after 15 minutes, we’re legally allowed to leave!”

By Cheese Hater

“Ay guys if he doesn’t show up after 15 minutes then we’re legally allowed to leave and they can’t stop us” says male sophomore after his chemistry teacher neglects to arrive to class on time. After this was said, the hall fell silent. Nearby upperclassmen stop dead in their tracks to hear his profound legal knowledge. This vans and gym shorts wearing boy is stared at in shock and admiration by the rest of the class. “I never knew we could just LEAVE,” said a girl from the same class, “I thought we would have to wait until the teacher arrived!” But no, this boy has truly awoken the minds of his dumbfounded peers. “Yeah,” the boy continues, “my mom is like a lawyer so it’s totally true. In 3 minutes we can just go to Lee’s”. At this point, a small crowd has started to gather around the boy to hear his wisdom. He preaches that once the clock strikes 15 after, students may leave campus, buy food, and even commit a number of crimes, yet remain unpunished by the administration. He leans back and pushes his flowery jansport bag filled with crumpled papers against the wall as he continues to shock and awe his classmates. “But yeah it’s like a California law or something,” he explains in a perfectly nonchalant way. As the clock hits 10 past, a disgruntled substitute teacher, with his microphone and massive newspaper, pushes his way through the large crowd of students. The male sophomore rolls his eyes and looks to his friend, “hey bro let’s go to the bathroom real quick”. His incredible information about the nuances of school law will not be forgotten and his wisdom will create ripples throughout the tech community for decades to come.

How to Maybe Actually Have a Chance of Getting Into A College

By Assistant Principal of Something

Forget the college of your dreams. There’s no chance. Start by setting your expectations really low... maybe you won’t get into any of them! Then, the inevitable disappointment won’t be so bad, and if there is some miracle and you do get into college, you will be super happy!

Get at least 3200 on your SAT. Yeah, they say the test scores aren’t a huge consideration, but that is all a lie. You have to start off strong, at least keeping up with the other applicants, and this is the way to do it.

Take all of the subject tests. Yes, all of them. Haven’t taken a class on it? Who cares, you need to take the stupid test. And do well on it.

Take 9 classes a year, all weighted, including at least 2 at a respected college.

Start your own company. Even better if it’s based off of a product you invented yourself

Be a legacy. No, one parent is not enough. Your great-grandfather better have built the school himself, and there has to be at least 3 buildings on campus with your family’s name on it.

Ah, Extracurriculars! They mean nothing unless you are captain of at least 4 sports teams, president of 5 clubs, have a job, are an intern at a large company, and do at least 30 hours of community service a week.

Won an award. No, school awards don’t count. When they say award, they mean a Nobel Peace Prize, Pulitzer Prize, Oscar, Grammy, Tony, or some other equivalent of these prestigious awards.

Now for the essays. They need to be works of true literary genius and rival some of the greats. They better evoke a rollercoaster of emotions, and be full of beautiful imagery and metaphors.

Disclaimer: This article was sponsored by the College Board. There is no guarantee that it actually aligns with what the admissions people want, but that wouldn’t matter anyway they seem to change their minds every 5 minutes.

Horoscopes

By The Ice Cream Cart Man

Please note that I have consulted the stars and these are 100% factual

Aries

(March 21-April 19)

A man in an extremely silly hat will answer your questions. Beware polka dots and the number 27. They will not help you on your quest.

Taurus

(April 20-May 20)

In order to ensure a prosperous Taurus season, make sure to only enter rooms backwards. Your rise and falls in fortune will directly follow this.

Gemini

(May 21-June 20)

Be on the lookout for someone trying to defame you. Make sure to only cross Broadway at the crosswalk to avoid any evidence of wrongdoing

Cancer

(June 21-July 22)

You never know when someone might want a quick snack. Be sure to keep a handful of blueberries with you in case you meet someone new. They will be thankful for all of the B vitamins

Leo

(July 23-August 22)

Many people suspect you are a vampire. Avoid garlic, mirrors, and crucifixes to further their suspicion. However to really sell it, you need to befriend the bat that lives in the upstairs hallway.

Virgo

(August 23-September 22)

Try to bench press a worm. The results may surprise you.

Libra

(September 23-October 22)

Make sure to contemplate any decision you are about to make for an excruciatingly long time until someone else just chooses for you. This way if you don’t like the outcome, you can just blame someone else.

Scorpio

(October 23-November 21)

Tell everyone you breathe through your skin like a frog and have to stay inside because the city pollution is too toxic. This will get you out of running 4 miles for PE.

Sagittarius

(November 22-December 21)

Try something new for once. Take a class on ceramics, milk a new animal, or only wear wet socks. It will help you gain a new perspective on the world.

Capricorn

(December 22-January 19)

It’s time to revamp your wardrobe. Cover yourself in honey and wear whatever sticks to you. This is a fun way to interact with your environment and help your classmates get to know you a little better.

Aquarius

(January 20-February 18)

The ocean is a vast and mysterious thing. Yell at it until it cries or tells you stop. Once you have established dominance, have it bring you that necklace the chick in The Titanic dropped.

Pisces

(February 19-March 20)

Tell everyone how excited you are for summer. When they ask you what your plans are, explain that summer stands for Sporty Uzbekistani’s Making Memories Exploring Restaurants.

It’s guaranteed to predict your future

Features

Random Overheard Quotes

“What type of crabs are you fighting?”

“This is not a spy movie but...”

“Does anyone else feel like they are good at throwing food up into the air and then catching it in their mouth?”

“That joke has victims, sir”

“It’s consistently temporary”

“Thank you long limbed male”

“The chicken is out of the coop.”

“Boats are wild”

“Take me to the Ganges”

“I will shoot it down with my mind anti aircraft guns”

“States be hell different”

“I’m a fish”

“You don’t do drugs. You just throw food.”

“Oh God, my nostrils”

“Everything about poppin’ bottles is happening at lunch”

“Let me introduce you to my two best friends: Pain and Gain”

“And the link is your mouth”

“They are reserved for my digestive system”

“What’s that? The Anti-Christ?”

“I have three party hats cause it’s not a two party system”

“Take some advice from Advice Man”

“When I see my daughter’s poopy diaper, it reminds me of you sagging”

“Real athletes don’t drink or eat or sleep, just run”

“Why lose weight when you could just grow more legs?”

“I smell like cow”

“Simply don’t wear pants”

“When in doubt, bang it out”

“That sounds like wrong”

“I actually stockpile apples just incase”

“Remember to use the bathroom before you go to college”

“Praying is the new sit ting”

“Oh! You’re a heathen!”

“George Washington was obviously the first president to be first president”

“God gave me free will, and I chose to eat a bunch of apples”

“It be like that”

“The thighs are the thighs of power”

“Man, why you so smart? I’m takin’ out your brain! It’s just your brains”

“I can see Karl Marx Hell from here”

“I’m not lengthist”

“The bridge party! Neighhh”

“Hey, does anyone want’a eat the cheese off my pizza?”

“Love is just laissez faire capitalism”

“It’s not leech, it’s love”

“They’re just talking giraffes”

“Well you can’t have infinite experiences if you die”

“She didn’t give birth. She laid eggs.”

“The clubs come out when the moderates are silenced”

“We got Standeiv and Communist Boy”

“What, a surprise? Like food?”

“Holy moly guacamole!”

“Grimy”

“Breaded bread”

“I’m expecting something stupid”

“All smothered in communion wafers”

“Here’s some work. Pretend to do it if WASC people come in”

“Not so good with the golf lingo”

“First of all, Global Warming”

“Give me some break”

“Some of you may have parents”

“She can smell us right now”

“BIG BROTHER!!”

“THIS IS A FASHION STASH!”

“Lines are just rectangles that are thin!!!”

“He just took the bag and poured it into another bag”

“I’m lookin’ everywhere”

“Colorado. Boulder. Granite. Rocks! I like Colorado”

“Yes thank you, have some blood money”

“Mitch McConnell, lookin’ like a snack”

“I’m just heckling”

“Capitalism is painful”

“Honey, I shrunk the government”

“He just sauced up that cold war”

“Don’t jump on the hype train”

“No one will understand 666”

“Anytime you’re doing a confidence interval you need to panic... literally”

“This is just scary as Hell and it’s too British”

“We’re starting the bureaucracy on Monday”

“Why is heaven next to hell? Cause it’s the same thing”

“You can’t really, like, get some under the ground, like in a grave”

“Me and the gazelles and the turnips”

“And now we’re gonna put hats on our p’s”

“Suffer! Suffer! Suffer!”

“Don’t put the turd in the punch bowl”

“Wow, you’re sophisticated, but I hate you”

“APES are out freezing in the cold”

“My man, he gettin’ himself all up in the brain”

“Dooooon’t care”

“I tried to do some sleep”

“The Russians are the OG hipsters”

“Does it look like we’re skipping?”

“I think that’s because of the boom box”

“That makes sense. He’s a vampire”

“Are the kids taking DayQuil now?”

“This eat’n my brain cells”

“Maybe he was hypnotized into thinking he was counting telephone poles when really some magic was going on”

“Crocs”

“Then I could mummify my body”

“He said we do have class tomorrow. And we said us not have class tomorrow”

“Do you play debate?”

“Oh! I gotta pee now!”

“It was like trains during Mussolini”

“Once he thawed, he was a liquid.”

“Alright, let’s make some babies and stuff”

“Give me that baby!”

“That is a cow with great lung capacity”

“So this is a don’t play with fireworks lesson”

“Call me a fiscal hawk”

“I have so much nutritional yeast in my pocket”

“Ha, ha the government’s bigger, ha, ha, ironic”

“You’re a walking migraine”

“Ooo! How ‘bout unemployment!”

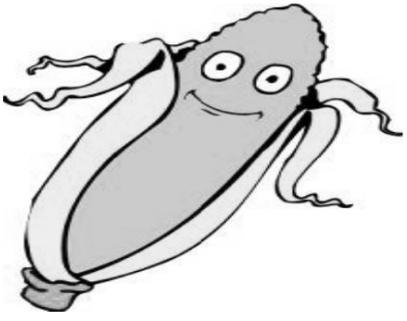

“Clifford’s not in the back yard”

“Poetry is just emotional nudes”

Features

To help you get through all of the unnecessary and boring classes that seem to relate to absolutely nothing in life...

Corny Jokes Crossword

Every clue in this printable crossword puzzle is a joke – a very corny one. If you can come up with the same answer I did, then you'll have no problem completing this puzzle. But then again, it may be a bit more difficult than it sounds.

DISCLAIMER: There may be more than one answer to some of these groaners, and you may not think these are funny at all. But I'm guessing you'll love solving this crossword! 😊

Across

1. How does a mouse feel after it takes a bath? (2 wds.)
4. Where were the first donuts fried?
6. Where are delinquent hard drives sent? (2 wds.)
9. What is a diver's favorite game?
13. What do rock musicians use when they get hurt?
16. What pets do musicians like?
17. What kind of artist is likely to get arrested? (2 wd.)
19. If a seagull flies over the sea, what flies over the bay?
22. What cannot run even though it has three feet?
23. What did the mother buffalo say to her son before he left?
25. What's the most popular tune?
26. What is brown and sticky?
27. What do you put in a barrel to make it lighter?
28. What do you call an angle that's been in a car crash?
29. How do you make a puppy disappear? (2 wds.)
30. What do you get when you cross chocolate powder with a magic dragon? (2wds.)

Down

2. What do you call a boy hanging on the wall?
3. What do you get when you cross an ear of corn with a spider?
5. How did the computer feel after its memory had been upgraded?
7. How to you throw the best party in the universe?
8. What has teeth but doesn't bite?
10. How do you get an astronaut's baby to fall asleep?
11. What can be divided, but no one can see where it was divided?
12. What kind of waves are impossible to swim in?
14. What do cats have that no other animal in the world has?
15. What kind of fish like peanut butter?
18. What kind of music can you play with your toes?
20. What do you call a grizzle bear with no teeth (2 wds.)
21. What musical instrument is not to be believed?
24. What's the difference between an old penny and a new dime? (2 wds.)

(Answers on Page 8)

(Ms. Wolf continued from page 1)

majority, there is a unified sense of confusion eminent among the student body.

“She’s so stylish!! I thought middle aged people (20s-30s) dress bad but like, I’m pretty sure Ms. Wolf and I have the same dress from forever 21! Only students dress that well! I even suggested we go shopping together!”

“Every once in a while she’ll text me memes from the @othsmemes instagram account that we’ll laugh over, they’re just so relatable!”

Many students claim she is someone to talk to or work out ideas with. “She’s been trying to find me a prom date for months and even sent me some links on pinterest for some dresses to try out!” says Student-Who-Thought-She-Was-Best-Friends-With-Ms-Wolf-Before-Finding-Out-She-Wasn’t-A-Student.

“I always go to her with my problems, when I talk to her it’s like we’re equals and she always offers constructive advice, I didn’t think administrators were capable of that!”

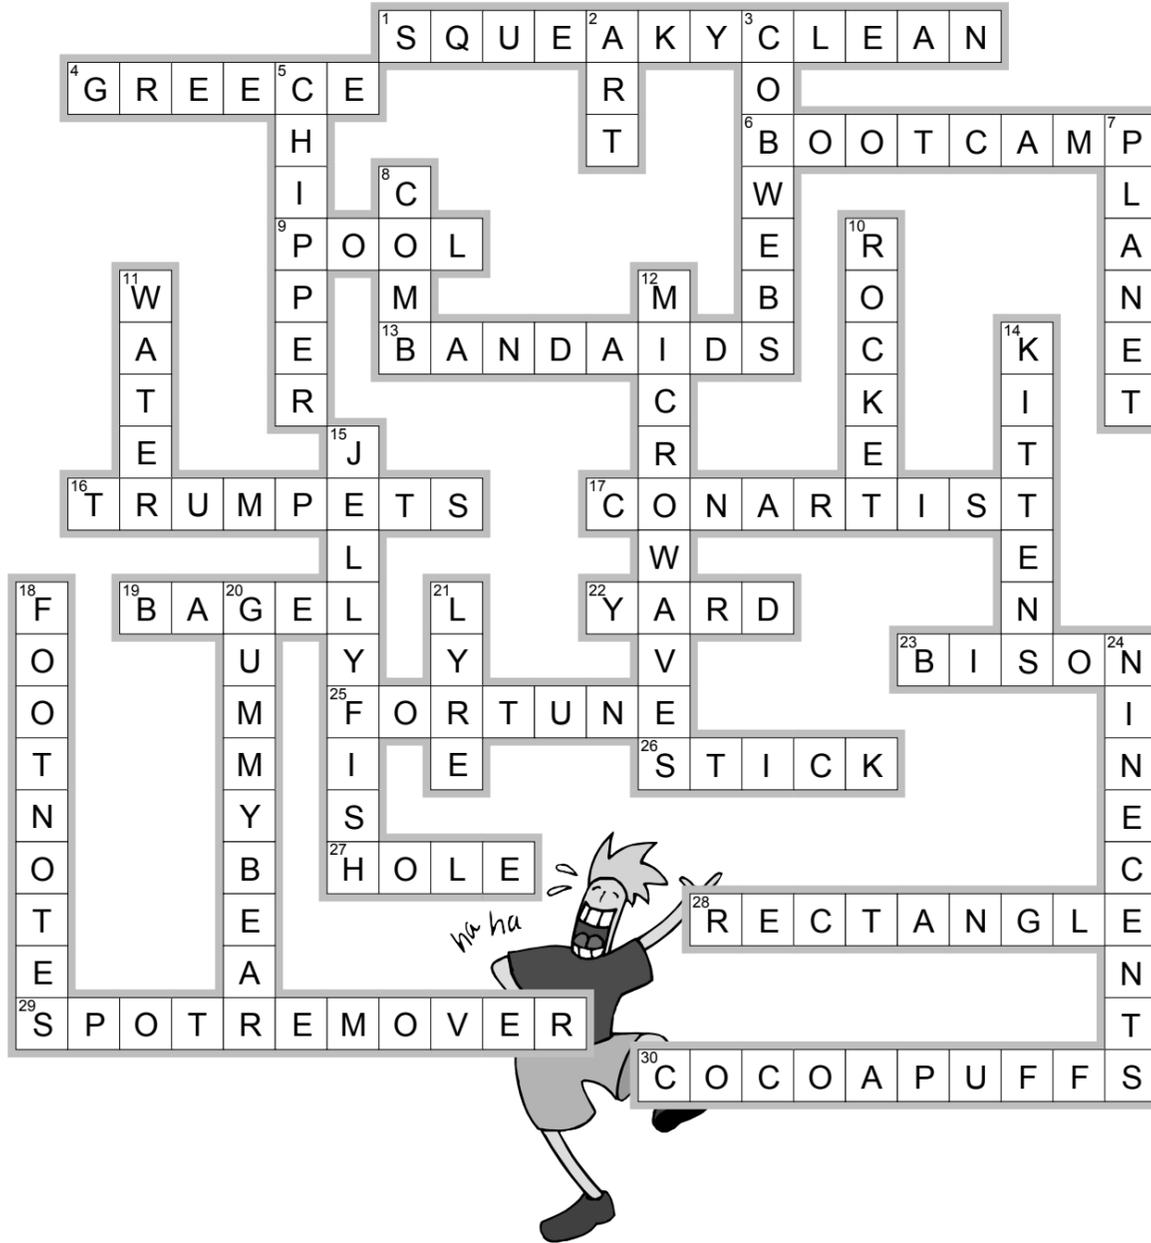

This is a common mindset across the OT campus, students are not used to connecting with their administrators in the same way they can with Ms Wolf. She’s a positive reinforcement in many students academic careers as well as social life in the miserable stages of high school and for students, making her seem more like a best friend than an unattainable authority figure.

Bet you can't spot the administrator in this picture

Answers

Disclaimer: This paper should not be confused with the Oakland Tech publication with a similar name.

Staff Contributors to This Issue

Your Leadership Announcements

The Only Person Who Goes to Detention, Lavender Gooms aka “The Heater”,

The Broken Tampon Box in Every Girls Bathroom, A 17 Year Old Healthy Man, Trying His Best,

The Founders of The OTHS Espionage Agency,

The Person Whose Mom Knows Your Mom,

That Random Underclassman Who Always Says Hi to You,

Cheese Hater, Assistant Principal of Something,

The Ice Cream Cart Man